Learning Outcomes

This Elective has five Course Learning Outcomes.

Course Learning Outcomes

LOL B - Level 2: The student develops a prototype that addresses a clearly articulated design challenge.

LOL C - level 2: The student systematically applies theoretical concepts to inform and justify design decisions within defined professional contexts with the supervision of an instructor.

LOL C - Level 2: The student develops a narrative canvas that demonstrates how player experience, game mechanics, and narrative elements interconnect and reinforce each other in their game design.

LOL D - Level 2: The student creates a Narrative Design Canvas demonstrating how narrative elements shape a specific player experience through game interactions.

LOL E - Level 2: The student explores original design ideas, refining through feedback and theoretical concepts.

Inhoud

In the Narrative Design elective, students will create their own narrative driven design exemplified by a slice of the game experience. To facilitate this, students will use a framework approach and will be coached along this process through a workshop-style courses that focus on building specific connections and narrative considerations. Students will be challenged with examples of works with diverse storytelling, theme, interesting characters, plot conflicts, world-building, and other narrative design elements.
