Content

This course develops students' ability to investigate and communicate solutions to real-world international business challenges. Students design and conduct applied research using qualitative and quantitative methods, and critically analyze current business issues related to law, economics, ethics, sustainability, and innovation. A strong global mindset is fostered through professional communication tailored to international audiences. The course connects to sustainability and social impact by emphasizing responsible, evidence-based decision-making and sustainable value creation, aligning most strongly with SDG 12 (Responsible Consumption and Production) and SDG 8 (Decent Work and Economic Growth).
