Content

In the fourth and last semester of the program you work towards a final, integrated demonstration of your professional practice in which you show the learning outcomes of the program at master level. You create a plan for this in which your vision as an engaged musician with a reflective, curious and entrepreneurial mindset and your artistic products come together. The demonstration can take on many forms: a performance, a concert or recital, a workshop, an artistic presentation, combinations of all that, etc. and is always accompanied by a portfolio that you build up throughout your studies.

During the Artistic Development course supervision and coaching focuses on your specific questions and needs concerning the artistic and creative aspects of your professional practice. Interaction and peer learning takes place in strand specific and/or overarching activities such as workshops, projects, bands or ensembles.
