Inhoud

Personal Contextual Development
In this course, you have the freedom to shape your own learning path. You can choose to conduct an individual research project, take a course, or for instance participate in a short, intensive international programme, provided it connects to the context of Urban Regeneration.

At the start, you define your approach in a personal plan. After completing the course, you reflect critically on your approach, development, and results in relation to this plan, gaining clear insight into your progress and growth.
